Task 3: Conversation

Note: Students' responses are quoted verbatim and may contain grammatical errors. In the transcripts of students' speech quoted in the commentaries, a three-dot ellipsis indicates that the samples have been excerpted. Two dots indicate that the student paused while speaking.

Overview

This task assessed speaking in the interpersonal communicative mode by having students respond as part of a simulated oral conversation. Students were first allotted 1 minute to read a preview of the conversation, including an outline of each turn in the conversation. Then the conversation proceeded, including 20 seconds for students to speak at each of five turns in the conversation. The series of five responses received a single holistic score based on how well it accomplished the assigned task. The responses had to appropriately address each turn in the conversation according to the outline as well as the simulated interlocutor's utterance.

In this exam, within the theme of Personal and Public Identities (Persönliche und Öffentliche Identität), the interlocutor (Daniel) greeted the student and asked, "What's new?" (Gibt's was Neues bei dir?) The student was supposed to respond and then ask a similar question. The interlocutor described a problem (his father wanted to be his Facebook friend) and asked for the student's opinion. In the third turn, the interlocutor responded by stating his own opinion, and then asked another question, Warum will mein Vater auf meine Facebook-Seite (Why does my father want to have access to my Facebook page?). After the student responded, Daniel expressed a concern and asked for advice. The student offered advice and, in his final turn, Daniel asked another question. The conversation concluded with the student's response.

Commentary

This conversation maintains the exchange with responses that are clearly appropriate within the context of the task and with frequent elaboration; occasional errors do not impede comprehensibility. The variety and accuracy of grammar and vocabulary make the responses fully understandable and the student speaks with ease of expression and uses idiomatic language (“Aber meine Mutter guckt das nicht alles an”). The register is appropriate for the conversation and self-correction improves comprehensibility (“dass er sein, dass er dein Freund an Facebook ist”).

(WA) Nein, es gibt nichts über mir. Was über dich?

Ich finde das toll. Familie ist echt sehr wichtig.

Ich meine, dass er nur .. näher mit .. dir sein möchte.

Ich glaube, dass du .. ehrlich .. sein sollst. Du sollst sagen, dass du liebst er, aber .. Facebook ist für Freunde.

Wir werden mehr lernen.

Commentary

This response maintains the exchange and provides required information using appropriate but basic vocabulary, including a few idiomatic expressions (“echt sehr wichtig”). The exchanges are short and there is no elaboration. Pronunciation, intonation, and pacing make the responses generally comprehensible and there is general control of grammar, but the brevity of the responses keeps this exchange in the fair range.

Commentary

This conversation partially maintains the exchange with responses that are minimally appropriate within the context of the task. The exchange is partially understandable, but errors force interpretation and cause confusion for the listener. The considerable strain in pacing, combined with poor pronunciation, makes the response difficult to comprehend at times. Limited vocabulary resources are demonstrated when the student breaks into English. The control of grammar and syntax is limited as well.
